Wings

Hoop your stabilizer and run Step 1 the placement line on your stabilizer.

Tape ribbons over the lines at the bottom of the butterfly wings.

Lay felt on top of your placement line and stitch the inner butterfly detail.

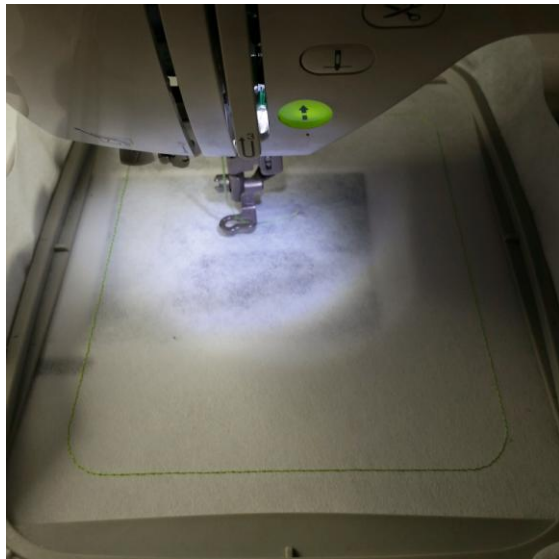

Float felt below the hoop over your placement line and stitch final tackdown.

Hoop your stabilizer and run Step 1 the placement line and ribbon placement line on your stabilizer.

Take your butterflies and place the end of the ribbons over the placement line on the BACK of your hoop with the butterflies coming out of the front like this. Tape them in place and run step 2, ribbon tack down.

Lay a piece of felt over page placement line and stitch step 3, the butterfly.

Stitch step 4, the cloud placement line.

Lay a piece of felt over page placement line and stitch step 5, the cloud tack down.

Remove your hoop from the machine, but do NOT un hoop your page. Take a seam ripper and cut the felt & stabilizer between the slot on the top of the cloud. Pull the butterfly wings through this slot from the back. Tape out of the way of the edges.

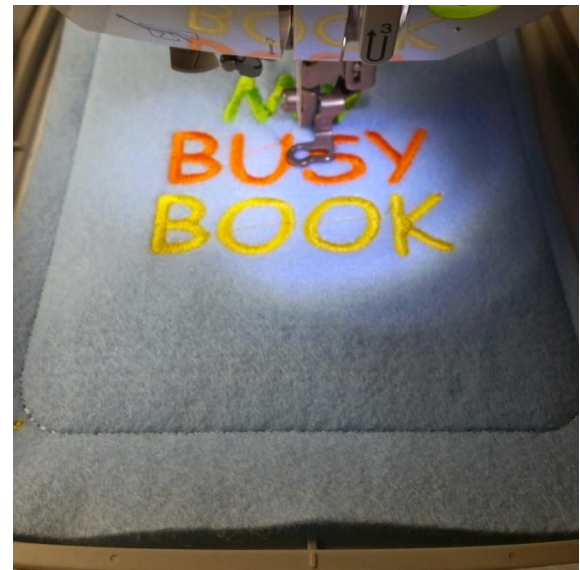

If you are making a double sided page, run step 6. These are little triangles in each corner you will use to match up to a later page. Otherwise skip this step.

If you are making a double sided page, you would stop here and either line that page up on the backside or start your next page. See Directions on next page.

If you skipped the last step and are making a single sided page, float felt on the back of your hoop and run step 7, the final tack down stitch. Then run step 8, the holes for your binder rings.

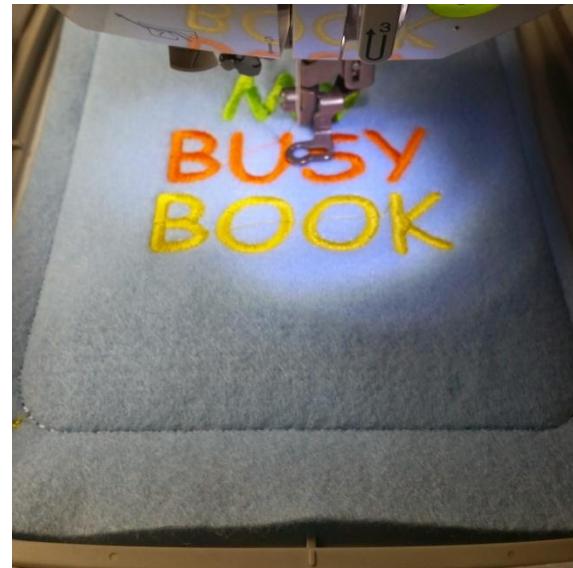

Double Sided Pages

When making double sided pages, always start with your back side. You will be unhooping this after step 5 and setting it aside.

Assuming you already did your back side page and you just finished step 6 on your front page...take your back page and line up the 4 triangles in each corner. Spray it with spray adhesive to hold it in place or tape it down good.

Place your hoop back in your machine and run step 7, the final tack down. This will join your 2 pages together.

Please think about your page selections.. The butterfly page is pretty bulky and is a hard page to float on the back of the hoop so it should be a front side of a page. Also, pages you cover in vinyl might be tricky if your floating the vinyl underneath the hoop.

Run step 8, the holes for your binder rings or ribbon to tie through. Unhoop, trim and use a crop a dile or hole punch to punch out the holes and your done!
